SAGE Insight

Welcome! SAGE Insight puts the spotlight on research published in our 700+ journals. All the articles we link to from this site are free to read for a limited period. Both new and from our archives, the articles on SAGE Insight provide a fresh perspective on major issues facing the public and policy makers. We cover everything from crime to medical practices, from psychology to education. If it's a topic that you find interesting, use these articles to spread the debate: write about it on your blog, microblog, or newsletter. Link to us, or if you're a SAGE journals author suggest your article for inclusion.

Here are the most recent posts for SAGE Insight:

The ways advocates make meaning of feminism and domestic violence

Meaning-making and domestic violence victim advocacy an examination of feminist identities, ideologies, and practices From Feminist Criminology This study examines the relationship between feminism and advocacy. It outlines the ways advocates make meaning of feminism and domestic violence, and how such ... Continue reading →

Disability and poverty

Special Issue From Career Development and Transition for Exceptional Individuals Poverty and disability are inexorably linked. However, as a field, the impact of poverty on young adults with disabilities transitioning to adulthood has not been examined. The purpose of this ... Continue reading →
